AMU is proud to bear the name of Adam Mickiewicz – a Polish bard who believed strongly in a free, multicultural Poland and was one of the most important poets of European Romanticism.

AMU is one of the largest academic centers in Poland. In addition to its facilities in Poznan, it has campuses in Gniezno, Kalisz, Pila and Slubice. The University currently employs nearly 3,000 teaching staff, including 345 tenured professors, 550 AMU professors and over 1,600 doctors and senior lecturers. Since 2002 our professors have coordinated or have been partners in over 50 research projects funded by the European Union Framework Programs for Research and Technological Development (from FP5 to FP7).

AMU is strongly dedicated to creating high-standard educational opportunities. The University serves over 47,000 students with 15 faculties offering BA, MA and PhD programs. Students who know Polish can choose from over 170 majors. The newest programs include National Security, Biophysics with Nano-Bio-Med component, Geocology, as well as new language programs such as Latvian Studies and South African Studies.

AMU offers BA programs taught in Polish, English and German, MA programs in Polish, English, German and Dutch and individual PhD research programs in English and a variety of other languages.

- description
  The European Master’s Programme in Human Rights and Democratisation (E.MA) is an intensive one-year academic programme to educate professionals in the field of human rights and democratisation, and provide its graduates with practical work experience. It is a multidisciplinary programme that reflects the indivisible links between human rights, democracy, peace and development. The programme offers an action and policy-oriented approach to learning about international relations, law, philosophy, history, anthropology, political science and sociology. Students have the opportunity to meet and be taught by leading academics, experts and representatives of international organisations (including European Union representatives) while studying in a multi-cultural environment. The Programme offers a full semester in Venice and a semester at a participating University.

  EMA-PS is the first ever European Master's Program of its kind. It is unique in that it is both interdisciplinary and multinational. The program of studies combines five disciplines, uniting the sciences and the arts in order to study creative performance. Unlike other Master's programs in creativity and thinking, EMA-PS will focus on the origins of learning, memory and creativity - on their genesis.
  The research proposed by EMA-PS has the potential to shape a new era in various different sectors, from Neuroscience to Economics and Management.

- description
  Languages and Literature, Other humanities Crossways in Cultural Narratives is specialised in traditional humanities with a modern languages background, taking European Identities and European Cultures as its theme. Discovery agenda: What does it mean to be European? – over historical time, in relation to the sources, the historical genesis of European ideas and sensibilities, achievements and values - and of Europe's future – in respect of the various forms of Difference and Otherness that Europe knows to be part of its own internal constitution – with regard to social and cultural patterns making up Europe's 'modernity' and 'postmodernity', as well as those constituting its 'intellectual capital' and its 'cultural heritage' – in relation to Europe's defining sense of self and to its Others (Middle Eastern, N. American, Latin American, Indian, Chinese etc) in the world today. Selected and supported by the European Commission, the Masters Programme Crossways in Cultural Narratives offers an eclectic integrated programme feeding on successful programmes run locally in the 10 Universities making up the Crossways Consortium: Bergamo (Italy), Lisbon (Portugal), Perpignan (France), Santiago de Compostella (Spain), Sheffield (England), St Andrews (Scotland), Poznan (Poland), Guelph (Canada), Entre Ríos (Argentina), Ciudad de México (Mexico). The teaching languages are normally those of the host Country; however, the teaching languages at Adam Mickiewicz University are French, Spanish and Italian (i.e. knowledge of Polish is recommended but not necessary).

description
The student of the unique Balkan studies gains the practical knowledge of two regional languages – one is Slavonic chosen from the group of following languages: Bulgarian/Macedonian/Serbian (level B1) and one non-Slavonic from among Albanian, Greek, Romanian and Turkish (level B1). The practical knowledge of those languages is supplemented with comprehensive studies of Balkan contemporary literature and current cultural, social, political and economic transformations in the Balkans. The interdisciplinary character of the programme, including research methods of language and literature studies, ethnology, history and political science gives knowledge about the linguistic, ethnic and political conditions, including the identity issues, and their current forms in Balkan countries. The specific merger of those four realms of science leads to the attainment of skills necessary to synthesizing and applying those theories in practice. Students learn to think in terms of the dialectics of analysis and synthesis, to formulate and verify hypotheses and evaluate the current cultural, politic and economic phenomena in the Balkans. The graduate will be highly competent in cultural and social analysis. Prospective jobs include national and self-government administration, national institutions, European Union authorities, cultural, educational, publishing institutions, foundations, economic institutions and mass media. A graduate of the unique Balkan studies will be well prepared to undertake research and enter PhD studies.

- description
  Languages and Literature The three-year course of studies includes classes from general and applied linguistics (morphology, syntax, semantics, pragmatics) and international languages – both ethnic languages which have been a lingua franca: from Aramaic, through Latin to English and planned languages, from the philosophical languages of the Middle Ages through Esperanto to the latest proposals. The focus of the studies is Esperanto as the only planned language to have spread across the world. The grammar, literature and history of Esperanto are examined in depth. Another important component of the studies is intercultural communication. The language of instruction is Esperanto. One session per semester (in September and February). During the intensive week long session in Poznan there are examinations and four 10-hour courses. During the semester students working on assignments given out during the session can consult lecturers by email and the programme’s internet platform. Programme is also learned in Esperanto.
